

CITY COUNCIL WASHES HANDS OF CEMETERY

MEMBERS SAY THEY HAVE BEEN GETTING UNJUST CRITICISM IN MOVE PROPOSAL

NEVER PLACED BEFORE THEM

Discuss Need of Securing Work for Unemployed This Winter. Want
Downtown Police Bell Repaired

Members of the city council unanimously passed a motion at their regular meeting Tuesday night, washing their hands completely of the proposal to move bodies in the old cemetery on west Hanna street, to Forest Hill cemetery. A motion framed by city attorney Glenn H. Lyon and passed by the members, stated that inasmuch as the matter had never been placed before them in any regular form the whole matter should be dropped.

According to a discussion at the meeting, the council members indicated they had been getting much undue criticism as the result of a proposal placed before them at the last regular meeting that the cemetery be decided to them, vacated by the council, and then have local unemployed remove the bodies to Forest Hill at the expense of DePaul university which would accept the old site as full payment of the expense incurred.

Since this proposal numerous persons have approached council members, it is said, severely criticizing them for the plan to remove the bodies in the burial ground. The council members wanted it made plain that they had nothing to do with the proposal and will take no steps toward acting on the proposal.

The council members approved a $20,000 Barrett law bond of W. T. Handy, who becomes city treasurer January 1, which calls for payment of a premium of $200.

Mayor W. L. Denman reported that a total of $3,648.50 in unpaid assessments on Hanna street, had been put into Barrett law bonds and sold.

City policeman Roscoe Scott requested that the council repair a downtown police bell in order that it could be heard more plainly a distance of several blocks. He also voiced a complaint that water from the alley west of the square drained down the sidewalk in front of the county jail, which formed a coat of ice in cold weather, making it hazardous for police when placing prisoners in jail. The council promised to investigate and do what it could to remedy both matters.

A short discussion also was had of the need of securing work for unemployed this winter. It was reported that a fund of several thousand dollars would be available this winter for unemployed provided work could be found for them. Street repair and tearing out of the sidewalks around the courthouse were among the suggestions made by council members.

JAPANESE WARSHIPS AND BOMBING PLANES IN ACTION

TOKIO, Dec. 23, (UP)—Advancing across Manchuria in a drive against "bandits," Japanese troops and bombing planes captured two Chinese citadels today and ordered warships into action to head off the beaten defenders.

Advises received here from Yinkow said that Japanese had occupied the citadel at Tienchungtai in south Panshan, disarming Chinese soldiery. From Haicheng it was reported another wing of the Japanese advance had taken the Niu-chuang citadel while airplanes continued a bombing foray westward along the Liao river.

A cruiser, two flotillas or destroyers, an aircraft carrier and a special service ship based at Jure and Sasebo, within cruising distance of ports near the Manchurian front, were ordered to prepare to sail for Chinmangtao. The order was believed intended to cut off a retreat by the Chinese.

Earlier in the advance, Japanese troops captured Fakumen, one of the largest cities north of Mukden, the center of Japanese activities.

Dividend Checks From Closed Bank

DEPOSITORS OF OLD BAIN-BRIDGE BANK GET CHECKS.
OTHERS TO COME

Six hundred dividend checks were mailed out today to the depositors of the Farmers State Bank of Bainbridge, which was closed in 1927, according to a statement from Russell E. Brown of the Citizens Trust Company, receiver for the bank. This dividend marks the fourth payment to the depositors, and they have now been paid to date 75 per cent of their deposits. The remaining assets will be sold at public auction on January 2, 1932, and final dividends will then be paid.

Coming at Christmas time, the checks will be especially appreciated, and gratefully received.

The Farmers State Bank of Bainbridge was closed on September 3, 1927, with a deposit liability of $129,811.84, and with estimated losses on that date of $55,000, and for the receiver to pay the depositors 75 per cent of their deposits and possibly more surely reflects efficient management on the part of the receiver, and should be commended for the tedious work involved in the settling of the affairs of the bank.

The work of the receiver necessitated the balancing and verifying all the accounts of the depositors; delivering cancelled checks; delivering papers left with the institution for safe keeping; and collecting the notes and interest in which case most all were in partial payments.

More than fifteen properties and farms were sold and fifty or more suits were filed. Various settlements were made on second mortgages, and estimated bad loans, which necessitated the written approval of the Putnam circuit court in each transaction.

The detailed report of the receiver has been filed in the office of the circuit clerk, and the final report will be made upon final distribution of dividends in the early part of 1932.

THEATER AND CLUBS BOOST FOOD MATINEE

SPECIAL SHOW TO BE GIVEN AT
GRANADA THURSDAY AFTERNOON

ROTARY AND KIWANIS SPONSOR

Food Donations Will Be Admission.
To Be Used In Fixing Christmas Baskets

The Greencastle Welfare Society is busy preparing for Christmas and is asking all who can contribute to the Christmas basket which will go out Thursday night, to send their supplies to the city library sometime Thursday.

The baskets will be made up during the day and an effort will be made to see that everyone in Greencastle has some Christmas. The Society is making every effort to see that there are no duplications and is asking that in case there are, to see that the duplicate goes to some needy neighbor.

All who can contribute some food stuffs, clothing or cash, are asked to see that it is at the city library some time Thursday, in order that the baskets can go out on time.

Through the courtesy of the Granada theater the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs are sponsoring a "Food Matinee" on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The purpose of this matinee is to obtain as much canned food as possible for distribution in Christmas baskets on Christmas morning. Accordingly the admission to this matinee will be a can of fruit or vegetables or its equivalent. No money will be accepted at the door and nobody will be excluded if they do not bring a can of fruit or vegetables but it is hoped that every one will join in the spirit of this endeavor and contribute their share to help make it the success that it deserves.

The program has been especially selected through Mrs. Ferd Lucas, local representative of the State Film Endorsers Board with a view to pleasing children and adults alike. "Top Speed" which is conceded to be Joe E. Brown's cleanest and best comedy will be the feature attraction and the short program will be a "Mickey Mouse" cartoon. Although the program has been selected especially for children it is not meant to exclude adults as everyone will be admitted at the same admission price.

This program will not in any way conflict or displace the regular program of the theater. There will be the regular showings of "Man-slaughter" starring Claudette Colbert and Fredric March on Thursday and Friday nights.

In addition to sponsoring this show and aiding in the distribution of the food obtained the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs will furnish enough apples and oranges for the baskets so that every child will have one for Christmas morning.

Clarence Lisby Gets 1-5 Term

COATESVILLE MAN PLEADED GUILTY IN CIRCUIT COURT
TUESDAY

Clarence Lisby, age 50 years, of Coatesville, was sentenced to serve 1 to 5 years in the Indiana State Prison, by Judge James P. Hughes in circuit court Wednesday morning, on a charge of driving a car while under the influence of liquor. Lisby pleaded guilty to the charge Tuesday but sentence was withheld until today.

The offense was said to have been Lisby's third, which made it a felony punishable by the prison term. Lisby served a similar term upon conviction for the same offense in Hendricks county.

Lisby and Mickey Collins, 37, also of Coatesville, were taken into custody by Greencastle police December 10, following an auto and truck collision on north Jackson street. Collins later was released on his own recognizance while Lisby has been held in the county jail.

Prosecutor Marshall D. Abrams said this afternoon that Collins would appear in circuit court Saturday where he probably will face a liquor charge.

TWO 30-CENT BANDITS HELD UP LOCAL MAN

BRAZIL MAN ARRESTED IN INDIANAPOLIS CONFESS BRUNERSTOWN ROBBERY

TOOK $50 FROM JESS ELLIS

Jack Slack and Thomas Davis Picked Out Of Group In Marion County Jail As Robbers.

Two Brazil men, Jack Slack and Thomas Davis, arrested by Indianapolis police on charges of carrying revolvers and participating in a 30-cent holdup, have confessed to holding up and robbing Jess Ellis, Brunerstown merchant, of $50 late Saturday evening, December 12, it was learned here today. Both bandits were picked out of a group in the Marion county jail by Mr. Ellis and identified as the men who robbed him.

It was said the men confessed following the identification, and admitted they had stolen a car in Brazil belonging to Clifford Mathews of Reelsville, and then abandoning it in Terre Haute the day following the holdup of Mr. Ellis. They drove up to the Ellis gasoline pumps on the night of the holdup, just as Mr. Ellis was closing his place of business for the day. They asked for gasoline and after securing this used revolvers to relieve Mr. Ellis of his wallet containing his Saturday receipts of cash and checks. The wallet was found the following day in Parke county.

The two men were apprehended in Indianapolis a few minutes following the holdup of Paul Elrod, a taxi driver. As Elrod was telephoning a report of the affair to police headquarters, the two men were being placed in the City Prison.

Elrod said the men threatened him with revolvers and took 30 cents from him. When they learned it was all he had, they gave the sum back to him and paid a 15-cent fare as they alighted from the cab.

He identified Slack and Davis as the bandits. They were charged with robbery and carrying concealed weapons.

Inasmuch as both men face sentences of ten years in Marion county it is unlikely they will be returned to Greencastle for sentence.

MORATORIUM IS RATIFIED BY CONGRESS

HOOVER'S FOREIGN WAR DEBT
BILL PASSES SENATE BY
69-12 VOTE

LATE NIGHT SESSION HELD

After Passing Moratorium, Congress
Voted For Christmas Recess
Until January 4

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23, (UP)—The $252,000,000 Hoover war debt and reparations moratorium is formally in effect today, with the consent and ratification of congress. The vote in the senate was 69 to 12.

The senate completed ratification late last night after an angry, 11-hour session. Senators then voted themselves and the house of representatives a Christmas holiday until Jan. 4. But the cheery spirit of St. Nicholas was conspicuously absent as the senate argued itself almost into a state of exhaustion and then decided to get some sleep.

The ratified moratorium resolution contained a reservation expressing congressional policy to be against cancellation or reduction of the war debts owed the United States. As several senators remarked, this reservation is a "scrap of paper," because one congress has not the power to bind another with respect to policy.

The moratorium had been ratified by the house some days earlier. Most of the representatives left Washington early today. Speaker Garner, Majority Leader Rainey and a few others stood by during the hours of senate debate to go through the motions at the end of receiving from the senate the Christmas vacation resolution, and for Garner to sign the moratorium resolution. At 11:05 last night all these formalities were completed and congress was in holiday recess.

Oratorically speaking, it was a bad day for Mr. Hoover.

Senator Johnson, Repn., Calif., said the president planned debt cancellation or reduction, and that he had violated constitutional procedure in obtaining from members of congress telegraphic approval of the moratorium.

Senator Blaine, Repn., Wis., described Mr. Hoover as one "who forgets he is not managing coal mines in China."

Sensors Nye, Reun., N. D.; McKellar, Shipstead, F-L, Minn.; Frazier, Repn., N. D.; Thomas, Dem., Okla.; and Norris, Repn., Nebr., levelled sarcasm against the moratorium or bludgeoned with heavier weapons.

A series of amendments were offered to make the moratorium conditional on revision of the Versailles treaty, on American repudiation of the allied thesis that Germany was solely responsible for the war, and on returning to Germany her lost colonies. Nye offered a rider to extend a year's moratorium to borrowers from federal farm land banks. Senator Gore, Dem., Okla., wanted an 80 per cent moratorium and would have devoted the 20 per cent of payments received—approximately $50,000,000—to winter relief of the unemployed.

A determined senate majority knocked over the proposals of the opposition as quickly as they were put up until the majority encountered the proposal of Nye. It is difficult to vote against extending aid to distressed agriculture. Many senators felt called upon to explain why they felt they must vote against the amendment, although they yielded to no man in the intensity or sincerity of their love for the American farmer. But Nye was voted down, 60 to 15.

Senator Cutting, Repn., N. M., caught the attention of the senate with a sharp denunciation of the whole debt and reparations structure. He said the moratorium was the "opening wedge" to destruction of the Versailles treaty, the Dawes and Young plans and the debt structure, and added, "That is one reason I am going to vote for it."

Half a dozen senators made the point that the moratorium proposed by Mr. Hoover on June 20 was not the moratorium they were called on to ratify last night, because France had rejected the original plan and had successfully insisted upon continued payment of so-called unconditional German reparations provided for by the Young plan. An amendment was offered to make the current version of the moratorium coincide with what Mr. Hoover first proposed. It was swamped.

BUSINESS MAN MURDERED

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 23, (UP)—Harry Lapidus, one of Omaha's leading politicians and business men, was murdered in his automobile here today as he drove through a residential section.

A carload of gunmen drove alongside him and riddled his car with bullets. Lapidus died almost instantly. No description of the men or their automobile was obtained.

Lapidus was one of the managers of Senator's Howell's campaign here three years ago and one of the wealthiest citizens of Omaha. Police could offer no explanation for the shooting.

Local Men In Auto Accident

CAR GOES OVER EMBANKMENT

Two Greencastle men were hurt when an auto in which four local men were riding left the road and plunged down a ten-foot embankment just west of Bainbridge on State Highway 36, Tuesday evening.

George Ensign and Charles Zeis were the injured members of the party while Roy Hillis and Joe Dodd fortunately escaped unhurt. The group was enroute to Bainbridge to participate in a checker tournament when the accident occurred.

According to members of the party, Mr. Hillis who was driving, was blinded by the powerful headlights of a speeding car approaching from the east. The glare prevented him seeing the road and the machine veered from the highway and went down the embankment.

Alva Bryan, sheriff of Putnam county, who reached the scene just after the mishap, gave chase to the other car but it had too much of a start and was travelling too fast for the officer to overtake it.

Howard Denny, another local man, happened along and he succeeded in getting a team of horses to pull the Hillis car back on the road. The machine was badly damaged in its descent.

Therm Basis Of Pay To Continue

INDIANA PUBLIC SERVICE COM-MISSION REFUSES TO CHANGE
ORDER FOR GAS MEASURE-MENT

The Indiana Public Service Commission has refused to modify its recent order for the measurement of gas in Indiana, whereby the gas utilities desired to measure on a therm basis instead of on the cubic foot basis, and the customers will continue to pay on the basis of the number of cubic feet used and not according to the number of therms or heat units used.

The gas companies filed a petition months ago asking for the change in billing and the petition was denied. After the denial, a second petition was filed, asking the commission to modify the order and this has been refused, and until other plans are made, the gas used in Indiana will be filled on the basis of cubic feet used and not the therms or heat units it contains.

It was said the gas utilities desired to change because of the introduction of natural gas in Indiana, which carries a much higher heat unit than artificial gas. What plan will be followed is not known.

GOV. LESLIE ASKS REVISED TAX MEASURE

ISSUES CHALLENGE FOR DRAFT
THAT WILL SATISFY
ALL CLASSES

FARM LEADERS ACCEPT

Officials Of Organized Agriculture In Indiana Begin Work Immediately
On Tax Measure

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 23, (UP)—Governor Harry G. Leslie challenged organized agriculture today to draft a tax revision program that would satisfy the legislature, farmers, business men, bankers, manufacturers, tax payers, and above all, the politicians.

The challenge was accepted and farm leaders began immediately to draft the program with which they hope to force Leslie to call a special session.

A demand for the extra session was carried to the governor directly yesterday by seven agricultural leaders, including, Lieut. Gov. Edgar D. Bush, Senator Alonzo Lindsey, Rep., Kingman, and William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation. They admitted they were without definite suggestions. They hoped the governor would summon a conference of interested persons to draft the program.

After hearing their plea, Leslie repeated all that he has said during the past few weeks concerning an extra session. He quoted frequently from his message to the legislature in assuring the committee that his office was without jurisdiction to ask the legislature to agree upon any plan. He refused to call a tax conference. He mentioned the committee on taxation revision that he appointed two years ago to draft recommendations, whose suggestions were passed over lightly by the legislature. He scoffed at the idea that a politically divided legislature could accomplish in a special session what it could not do in regular session, when conditions were identical.

He said he believed the farmers were largely responsible for the present situation because they had approved the bond issues and extra levies which raised taxes to their present level. He said Indiana was far better off than several other states where special sessions have been called and nothing was accomplished to ease situations. He believes it best to let well enough alone for the present and elect the next legislature solely upon a tax revision program.

Kiwanians Hear Penal Farm Head

Mr. Craig who was connected with the state prison at Michigan City for many years told the club several interesting stories regarding this penitentiary. He also described the routine a prisoner goes through when he enters the prison and other details of work, punishment and pleasures for the convicts.

In closing, Mr. Craig stated he was glad to come to this community and he extended a cordial invitation for the Kiwanians to visit him and inspect the state farm.

NEW LION PLANE SEEN AT CAPITAL AIRPORT

The Lion, a new light, open cockpit, two-passenger plane, was demonstrated at Hoosier and Municipal airports in Indianapolis yesterday. The craft, made with new automatic safety devices and reported to have low landing speed and ability for fast, steep climbing on takeoff, was built and designed by Harry Knowlton of Greencastle. Mr. Knowlton hopes to begin manufacture of the Lion in or near Indianapolis soon. The ship has a 45 horsepower engine, 31 foot wing span, 17 foot fuselage, top speed of 104 miles an hour and cruising speed between 36 and 90 miles an hour.

The local Moose lodge will meet to-night in regular session at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

COST AS WELL AS PRICE MAY INFLUENCE PROFIT

Dairymen who have no means of comparing cost of producing milk and butterfat this year and last, may be inclined to feel discontented with the returns received from their herds. When everything is taken into account, the difference has not been as great as many think. Figures for the six months period, May to October inclusive, published by the bureau of agricultural economics are very interesting. For this period the average price of butter 92 score on the market was 28 cents for the period and 37 cents for the same time last year. On the other hand, the cost of feed required to produce one pound of butterfat during the time in question this year was only 15 cents as against 21.4 cents last year. According to these figures the spread (difference between cost of feed and price of 92 score butter) is only 2.6 cents less per pound this year than it was last.

Unless present prices change considerably, a spread of around 20 cents (October spread was 22.47 cents) gives the dairyman a good return for his labor. It should not be overlooked, however, that a poor cow requires considerably more feed to produce a pound of butterfat than a good cow. A dairyman should not retain a mature cow in his herd which will not produce 300 pounds of butterfat in 300 days. A cow is deserving of a rest period of the other 60 days in the year with liberal rations so she may be in good flesh to start the next lactation.

BODIES RECOVERED
VATICAN CITY, Dec. 23 (UP)—The bodies of an artist and three workmen had been recovered and one missing workman was believed to have been killed in ruins of the Vatican library right wing in which is the private office of Pope Pius XI.

The roof and two floors of the wing collapsed yesterday.

The section contained frescoes and more than 10,000 rare books and manuscripts but it was believed that the loss of Vatican treasures might not be as great as first estimated.

The four walls of the wing, built by Pope Sixtus V in 1588, remained standing preventing destruction of many valuable objects. Workmen were repairing the building when the wing collapsed.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Notice is hereby given to the creditors, heirs and legatees of Jesse L. Nelson, deceased to appear in the Putnam Circuit Court, held at Greencastle, Indiana, on the 14th day of January, 1932, and show cause, if any, why the Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 22nd day of December, 1931.
No. 7348.
John W. Herod, Clerk Putnam Circuit Court.

A SOLDIER'S OPINION

Realizing a duty to the people of America, to the former soldier, to those who labor in the factories, in the office, in the fields of agriculture and business establishments, one hundred congressmen and twelve senators voted against the Hoover-Mellon, Wall Street & Co. moratorium. Surely with resentment in his heart that he was being asked to cast one of his first votes in congress for a measure designed for the relief of the people of foreign, while back home in his own district there are thousands of people who are bitterly suffering from the effects of unemployment, our own congressman, voted against this infamous measure.

The American farmer today faces ruin and bankruptcy. Thousands of them have seen their homes taken away under foreclosure proceedings. When they asked help from their government they were turned away empty handed.

More than six million honest laborers, with untold millions of good women and innocent children depending upon them for support, are out of work through no fault of their own. They are walking the streets begging for work to drive hunger and cold from their doors. When they asked help from their government, it told them the government will give no doles and that they must help each other.

Our nation should ever be grateful to our ex-service men who offered their lives in defense of our country, yet when they seek assistance for the widows and orphans of their comrades who have passed into eternity, when they seek payment on a debt which is justly due them, the government tells them there is no money in the treasury.

I feel sure that Congressman Gillen had these thoughts in mind when he voted against the moratorium. He realized that American needs should be met first.

Every man and woman in Putnam county should feel proud that they helped send to congress a man who chose to stand by the county rather than the president and Mr. Mellon.

Robert A. Hoffman.

Peach Circles

A cup of dried peaches are thoroughly scrubbed but not soaked, then steamed fifteen minutes and flattened with the fingers or a rolling-pin, on a bread board.

Half a cup of fondant is warmed in a double boiler, flavored with one fourth of a teaspoonful of vanilla or lemon extract; and two tablespoonfuls of chopped nut meats and two tablespoonfuls of chopped seedless raisins are added.

Two peach halves may be flattened and placed together, or they may be used singly spreading them as flat and large as possible. Cover each with a spoonful of fondant, and attaching all the peaches are spread, roll up and allow to stand an hour, or overnight, before slicing with a sharp knife about three-eighths of an inch thick.

OREGON CLOVER SEED NOT
ADAPTED TO INDIANA

E. W. Baker, county agent, has been advised that a large crop of red clover seed was produced in the Willamette valley, Oregon, this year and that a large crop of alfalfa seed was also produced in the southeastern states.

Experiments and farm experience have shown that this seed is not sufficiently hardy to withstand the average winter conditions of Indiana.

While this seed may be sold legally in Indiana provided it is correctly labeled, the State Seed Law requires that the State where grown be stated on the label.

In view of the fact that this seed is not adaptable to Indiana conditions it would doubtless be an unsound practice to offer it for sale in Indiana, H. R. Graybill, state seed commissioner, states.

—Petition seeking annulment of indictments against George H. Alexander, vice president of the Vincennes

bers of the jury, were prejudiced since that are patrons of the water com-

HELP BUILD UP
YOUR COMMUNITY

Did you ever stop to consider that every
City is judged by the type of its retail Stores.

The retail Stores of Greencastle have for years been tirelessly working to provide a shopping center of which the citizens of this city can be proud and which is in keeping with the development of the City as a whole.

Every dollar spent away from Greencastle or with the peddler and out-of-town order taker, for something that could just as easily and economically be bought at any Greencastle store does not help this City, or make business better.

We can only expect this Community to grow and prosper thru our own efforts and mutual co-operation.

When money is spent away from Greencastle, we are not co-operating, instead we are helping to finance and build up other Communities, and we derive no benefit to ourselves.

AT THE GRANADA

In 1922, Alice Duer Miller wrote a smashing, best-seller novel, "Manslaughter." Cecil B. DeMille produced it as a silent moving picture with Thomas Meighan and Leatrice Joy in the leading roles. Both the book and the picture were sensations. Now Paramount has transferred the thrilling drama of "Manslaughter" to the talking screen.

Claudette Colbert and Fredric March play the leading roles in this audible moving picture which George Abbott adapted and directed. Brought up-to-date, inspired with Abbott's genius, "Manslaughter" is even more of a sensation on the talking screen than it was either as a novel or as a silent picture.

"Manslaughter" which opens Thursday at the Granada theatre, is richly produced, filled with speed and the vivid verve of the new-day children of wealth. It opens among the playboys and gay girls who ride and swim and make merry in the society whirl. It runs to the serious side of life, as tragedy grips the most daring and carefree of those gorgeous people. It develops into a tremendous conflict of love and hate, with a handsome young attorney, pitting his strength against the wilfulness of a beautiful girl.

The Louisville Joint Stock Land bank filed suit in the Putnam Circuit court Wednesday against Cyrus M. O'Hair and others, to foreclose a mortgage on 180 acres of land and for a receiver. The plaintiff charges that the balance of an original $8,500 note is overdue and unpaid. A demand of $10,000 is made. W. M. Sutherland, A. L. McDonald and H. T. Huff are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Hitler Plans Fascist Regime For Fatherland

NOTED GERMAN LEADER SETS FORTH AIMS OF NAZI

MUNICH, Germany, Dec. 23, (UP)—The end of democracy in Germany and the establishment of a Fascist-like dictatorship under Adolph Hitler is one of the aims of Hitler's Fascist, or Nazi party.

Among the schemes figuring large in the program of the Nazis, which many millions of Germans are convinced will be the next party to rule the country, are the following:

Abolition of parliamentary democracy, or what the Hitlerites call "mobocracy," in favor of a Hitler dictatorship.

Revision of the treaty of Versailles and the reparations agreements, on which the entire post-war European political and financial settlement is based.

Reformation of Germany's constitution.

Erection of an organic peoples' state called "The Third Reich."

Already European chancelleries have been disturbed by the apparent imminence of Hitler's rise to power.

As Germany is in a sense the political and economic hub of Europe, the advent of a movement with such vowed objectives might determine the course of European politics for decades.

"The question in the minds of the closest observers of Hitlerism is to what extent the Nazis will attempt to attain their program if they attained power. As the possibility of seizing power and responsibility grows nearer, Nazi leaders have been perceptibly 'hedging' to avoid over-radical declarations of policy.

In conversation with Nazi officials in Munich, pointed questions about many primary points in their platform were met with such remarks as:

"Programs mean nothing. What we will do will be determined by conditions and requirements when we attain power."

The architectural firm announced that the contract would not be awarded until after Jan. 1.

The bids in order were: Premier Construction Company, Indianapolis, $116,241; John A. Keller & Son, Vincennes, $126,000; W. R. Heath Construction Company, Greencastle, Ind., $128,000; John Gebhart & Son, Chicago, $165,000.

NEW KIND OF MORATORIUM

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 23, (UP)—A one year moratorium on payment of foreign debts in currency other than the Hungarian pengos became effective today in Hungary.

The operation, known as a "transfer moratorium," is designed to prevent the flight of currency from Hungary. It is tantamount to cessation of any payments abroad until next year.

The government will deposit interest and annuities amounting to $35,000,000 in the Hungarian National Bank in favor of the foreign creditors affected. But the creditors can not convert the money into foreign currency for one year.

BANK OFFICIAL SHOTS CUS-

TOMER, THEN KILLS SELF
CHICAGO, Dec. 23, (UP)—John J. Visser, 35, saving bank official, shot Antonius Van Worden, 67, a client, and then committed suicide after a dispute in the bank office, police announced today.

The shooting and suicide occurred yesterday afternoon but police were hours in obtaining a connected story. The argument took place in a room separated only by a glass partition from employees.

Van Worden, who was seriously wounded, said the banker struck him with a section of lead pipe and then shot him. As Van Worden staggered from the room, Visser turned the gun on himself.

Katharine Faring, granddaughter of a Russian prince, is the rightful owner of the missing Carina rubies of sinister fame and fabulous value. Trying to recover them for her, Paul Federoff is murdered at Monksilver, a vacant country house, and Frank Severn is kidnapped and carried there unconscious. His servant, Creyke, is murdered.

Jim Wynter, friend of Severn and of Katharine, tries to rescue Severn, is injured and drugged and awakens in the home of mysterious Dr. Martell. Recovering, he takes Katharine and his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Grayson, to Severn's country home, Beggar's Court. There a search reveals a concealed stairway and a locked door in the ruins of an ancient chapel. The stub of one of Dr. Martell's cigarettes lies on the stairs.

Sant, Severn's lawyer, reluctantly agrees that the door be forced and goes to engage a blacksmith. Wynter and Grayson encounter in a nearby village a man Grayson recognizes as a former Sing Sing convict. Returning to Beggar's Court they find a wall of the ruin collapsed and the secret stairway buried.

CHAPTER XXXII

But if there was nothing but an empty vault behind that door, why should some one have been at such pains, as Wynter was convinced, to prevent its being opened? He had a mental picture of Martin creeping with that curious air of furtive stealth towards those gray walls to spy on their movements—Martin, who had been so eager to warn them off from searching the ruins.

Perhaps he had his own reasons for not speaking of that suspicion to Sant.

"There's always the chance they may have left some clue. Anyway, I shouldn't be surprised if the police in charge of the case want that door opened," returned Wynter.

"Oh, well, if you think that," said Sant carelessly. "I suppose I'd best see about having those steps cleared. It'll be the hell of a job, all that heavy stuff; want special tackle to shift it. However, I expect the finances of the estate will run to it," he laughed. "I'll let you know, Wynter, as soon as I've fixed up arrangements."

"Thanks. Much the best, I'm sure. By the way, Sant," added Wynter. "I've got some news for you—some news from Croydon Aerodrome that makes this queer business about Frank Severn more mysterious still. And Sant glanced at him quickly. "You remember how some five weeks ago Miss Faring came down here for news of Severn? Told you he'd intended flying over to England?"

"Yes. What about it? Frankly, I didn't treat it very seriously. I'd had a card from Severn myself just about that time—and wouldn't he have mentioned that he was returning? And since he didn't come—"

STARTLING

"But the point is, he did come. Severn crossed to England by air five weeks ago."

Sant's face looked suddenly startled.

"You can't mean that seriously, Wynter?"

"I'm telling you exactly what I heard from Croydon Aerodrome yesterday. Good enough, I should say."

"But—but if so, why didn't Severn turn up at Beggar's Court? Why did he keep me in the dark? The older man demanded as he incredulously. "And another thing. When I met him at Victoria less than a week ago he'd just come straight over from France. Do you mean to say he'd come over here secretly four or five weeks previously and had gone abroad again, all without a word to any of his friends or even going near his own house? That takes some swallowing."

"Oh, I told you it made the present mystery more inexplicable still," Wynter said. "But Severn had told Miss Faring he was coming—and according to the airways people he certainly did come. Though why he should have let no one know—"

He broke off with a little baffled shrug. "That time you saw him lately—a couple of nights before he vanished from Beggar's Court, wasn't it?—Severn didn't drop the faintest hint, I suppose," asked Bill Grayson.

"Wouldn't I have told you if he had?" snapped Sant. "Of course, I only saw Severn for half an hour or so; it was a bit of bad luck that I was running up north that night on business, had a train to catch. If only he'd given me longer warning than just a wire when he got off the boat at Newhaven! I wished then—and I've wished it more than ever since—that I could have put off my journey. I was worried about the change in Severn, damned worried. All gone to pieces he seemed."

And Sant frowned thoughtfully. "And he wouldn't give me a hint of what his trouble was—but a pretty big one, if I'm any judge. Severn said he'd a lot to tell me—was keen to see me as soon as I got back from Scotland; maybe he was saving it all up for them—a grillroom's hardly the place for discussing private matters. That was why I came back at the earliest possible moment—only, as you know, too late."

"That night you and I found Beggar's Court empty, Wynter, and that S. O. S. staring at us from that mirror."

Sant gave a sudden shiver. In the fading light the big round face usually so good-humoredly jovial, looked strained and worried.

"Well, I don't know what to think. I suppose only Severn himself could tell us. And I sometimes wonder if we shall ever know the truth—or even hear of him again."

Sant broke off abruptly. As they skirted the patch of woodland they had encountered Milly Grayson and Katharine coming across the grounds to meet them.

ALARMED

"We were coming to drag you away from that horribly unsafe place," Milly cried. "It turns me cold to think how easily that fall might have happened when my husband and Jimmy insisted, goodness knows why, on exploring those ruins."

"They've been exploring again," Sant said with a laugh. "No keeping 'em back. Fortunately I'm bringing them back to tea all safe and sound."

"Tea sounds uncommonly good to me," remarked Bill Grayson, "after the dust I've swallowed!"

Tea was served in the long, low old-fashioned drawing room, Milly presiding at Sant's request. Jim Wynter, his mind deep in brooding suspicions, watched Martin's face, expressionless as ever, as he brought in the tea. What was behind that stolid wooden mask?

"I hear you think of coming to this village, Mrs. Grayson?" said Sant. "Yes, we're going to take Manorways. It was Jimmy's brain-wave. Such a delightful house—we've all fallen in love with it."

"Before you make the definite plunge, may I say what I said to your husband? Don't decide too hurriedly. Lawyer's advice—and I won't charge you six-and-eight for it," he said humorously.

"But why ever not?" Milly asked in surprise.

"A dead and alive place like Mead's End after London—won't you be bored stiff before you've been down here a couple of days?"

"I believe you don't want us to come, Mr. Sant," cried Milly reproachfully.

Sant made a humorous deprecatory gesture. "But my dear Mrs. Grayson—"

"After all, it's only for a month. Of course Bill will have to be up in town a lot, but Jimmy will be down here and Miss Faring's coming to stay with us. I expect to find it great fun really," Milly declared. "By the way, we've made the acquaintance of one of our future neighbors already—a Mr. Ilsham."

"Ilsham—I fancy I've seen him in the village. Goes on crutches, doesn't he? Some one told me he was an artist, come to live here lately."

ADMIRATION

"He looks as if he might be an artist, doesn't he, Bill?" cried Milly. "He did a very plucky thing today, Mr. Sant—dragged Mike, our terrier, out of the jaws of a brute of a dog that wanted to eat him alive."

Sant listened politely, but evidently was not particularly interested in this newcomer to Mead's End.

Not interested as Bill Grayson was interested. But then Bill was pretty sure—though it was a suspicion he did not pass on to his host—that this was not the first time he had come across this man calling himself John Ilsham. And that their previous meeting had been in Sing Sing prison.

On that visit of his to the great state prison of New York the governor had pointed out a difference in the hideous prison garb of one of the convicts—a distinction, his guide explained, that marked the "lifer"—to make the distinctive cynical face of the prisoner in question flash back now, less than a year afterward, with curious clearness in Bill Grayson's mind.

Who was John Ilsham? How did this man he remembered as undergoing a life sentence come to be at liberty again? And above all, what had brought him to this neighborhood?

That last might be a pertinent question in view of all that had happened recently at Beggar's Court.

Well, in these secret investigations he and Jim were planning it might be worth while to keep a watchful eye on the movements of John Ilsham, late of Sing Sing.

Sant's visitors did not stay very long after tea was over and to Katharine that was rather a relief. More than ever here at Beggar's Court, whence the man who should have been their host had been mysteriously spirited away, the thought of Frank Severn, his unknown fate, haunted her. For her it was like a house under a deep, dark shadow.

"I think we ought to be running off now, Milly said, rising. "We want to see the house agent at Trayne, to settle at once about Manorways—and it would be too disappointing to find the office closed. Thanks so much for giving us tea, Mr. Sant."

Already the Autumn dusk was merging into dark as they went out to the car. Milly had elected to drive; Jim got in at the back by Katharine's side. He was congratulating himself that Manorways had won Milly's enthusiastic approval—and above all, that he and Katharine were to be fellow guests under its roof. When with characteristic impulsiveness Milly had invited Katharine to join them at Manorways, she must have had a sympathetic intuition of his own feelings in the matter. Jim felt. A real good sort, Milly.

From the doorway Sant waved a flamboyant hand and the car sped up the drive.

The following clippings were extracted from this week's issue of "Field Goals," a basketball paper printed in Indianapolis:

Greencastle Good

Washington lost its second game of the season to Greencastle. A gentleman from Greencastle stopped in our office to ask us what we thought of Greencastle now. We think now as we did before. Greencastle has a good basketball team. So has Washington. The game was played at Greencastle. If the game had been played at Washington maybe the score would have been reversed.

Two Crowing Reasons

Greencastle is crowing about two things these days. One of them is the fine high school basketball team that they have down there and the other is the team that Moffett is going to have at DePauw. As yet we don't know much about DePauw but we do know this about Moffett. He is a real basketball coach and his teams are always up among the top notchers.

Defense Noted

Greencastle handed Washington a set-back, winning 14-13. It was one of the few defensive games that have been played this year.

Tiger Cubs Picked

Central of Fort Wayne-Greencastle. Last year's state finalists are too good.

Frankfort 17; Anderson 15.

Congratulations Bausman! Your "Hot Dawgs" are certainly coming along in splendid style. At the half, Everett Case's Indians were leading Frankfort, 10 to 6. Then, in the last half due to the good work of Locke and Merrill, Frankfort forged into the front to defeat the conquerors of Muncie by 2 points. And Case used to coach at Frankfort.

Muncie 22; Washington 15.

Burl Friddle's Hatchets put up a good game against Jack Mann and his teammates but it was just the Bearcats' night. At the half, last year's state champs were ahead, 9 to 7 and they increased this advantage during the final periods. We noticed that McCracken starred for Washington.

Brazil downed Linton, 24 to 21. Moore, son of "Heavy" Moore the interurban man who lives in Greencastle, was the bright light for the Red Devils.

Newcastle had to come from behind to crock Shelbyville, 21 to 17. The Trojans were trailing on the small end of a 11 to 7 score at the rest intermission.

Other Scores

Crawfordsville 23; Thorntown 16. Horace Mann 25; Delhi 22. Seymour 28; Brownstown 9. Peru 21; Logansport 18.

The undefeated Bainbridge basketball team were handed some nice bouquets by the Indianapolis Star this morning. A good picture of the north Putnam squad was included in the write-up. The members of the squad are: Gordon Lee Hanks, Eugene Beck, Ralph Sands; Eugene Alexander Michael, Richard Whitely, Woodrow Dickson, Lewis Francis Lyman Booher, Wilmer Shum.

Concerning Bainbridge the article says:

Bainbridge had trouble in its opening tilt when an extra period was needed to defeat Brownsburg. Since then the Pointers have moved Fillmore, North Salem, Ellettsville, Graysville, Pittsboro, Cloverdale, Ladoga, in addition to an amalgamation. Tonight they will entertain Ben Davis. Sibbitt and Dunlap are the regular forwards. Porter handles the pivot position and works at back guard with Winkler playing floor guard. The entire squad averages more than six feet in height and weighs about 165 pounds. Lonsberry spent his freshman year at the University of Michigan, but finished his college career at DePauw where he starred in three sports.

Ben Davis To Play Bainbridge

MARION COUNTY QUINSET WILL ATTEMPT TO UPSET WINNING STREAK OF TEAM

Coach Gehrick's Ben Davis basketball team of Marion county will attempt to upset the winning streak of Bainbridge, when the two teams meet at the Bainbridge floor this evening. The up-Monon netters, under the tutelage of Coach Lonsberry, have won nine straight victories this season.

Added features of the game at Bainbridge tonight will be a preliminary tilt between second teams of the two schools and music by the Bainbridge-Bainbridge band.

Ben Davis comes to Bainbridge tonight recognized as the strongest team in Marion county outside of Indianapolis, and is expected to force the Lonsberry proteges to extend themselves to win.

LOCAL CHECKER PLAYERS HOLD OWN WITH EXPERT

Despite the fact that they were in an auto accident prior to their arrival in Bainbridge Tuesday evening, Greencastle men entered in the checker tourney held in the north Putnam town gave a good account of themselves against George Sherkey, expert player and champion of the Wabash Valley.

Mr. Sherkey, whose home is in Brazil, played 42 games simultaneously, winning 17. He had fourteen draws and lost eleven.

Local players figured in six games. Charles Zeis won two and obtained one draw. Joe Dodd won two and Ray Hillis won one. George Ensign, the fourth of the Greencastle entrants, did not participate.

Other winners were Pratt and Finney of Cloverdale; Case and Dodd of Bainbridge. Each won one game from the expert.

Assa Dorsett, of Lebanon, former state champion, was referee of the tournament.
